BONY'S ACTION FAILS

His Character To Be Investigated

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press").

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, December 1, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, Dec. 1.

The lawsuit brought by Police Inspector Bony against the weekly periodical "Gringoire" for defamation of character ended on Friday in a verdict for the defendants, both business manager and chief editor being declared innocent of the charges. Bony was required to pay the entire costs.

During the course of the court examination, several witnesses brought by the defence made such incriminating accusations against Bony that a judical investigation into his former activity has been ordered.—

SARTORIAL SECRET

Paris, Dec. 1.

Police Inspector Bony who played a prominent but much disputed role in the Stavisky affair was arrested on Saturday as a result of accusations made by witnesses for the defence in the law suit he brought and lost against the periodical "Gringoire."

The secret of Bony's well-dressed appearance as revealed by the charge was that he was instrumental in getting proceedings started against a foreigner many years ago and then postponed the case for several years. As a result he received a number of suits and clothes as a regard for his services.—

NAVAL TALK OPTIMISM

London, Nov. 30.

The Japanese Minister, Mr. Matsudaira, informed Mr. Norman Davis, American chief delegate to the naval conversations, of the matters contained in a statement made by Admiral Yamamoto to the First Sea Lord recently.

It seems that although Admiral Yamamoto does not appear to be over-optimistic with regard to the outcome of the naval talks, some satisfaction is felt elsewhere that the Japanese are at least attempting to reach an agreement on the basis of the British proposals.—

HIGH HONOUR FOR STRAUSS

Queen Wilhelmina's Recognition

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, December 1, 4.30 p.m.)

The Hague, Dec. 1.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands has conferred a high decoration on the famous German composer, Richard Strauss, namely the Grand Cross of the Oranien-Nassau Order. The announcement of this high distinction which the Queen has been pleased to confer on Strauss was made last night by the German Minister, Count Czech on the occasion of a reception to the German guest attended by the elite of the Dutch nation.

QUEEN WILHELMINA

Richard Strauss, who declares that he felt greatly honoured, is staying here on the occasion of the Richard Strauss Week in Holland.

Amsterdam accorded the famous composer a rousing reception when his opera "Arabella" was performed for the first time in Holland on Thursday night. The Dutch Press also pays a tribute to the German composer.—

Handy Silver-Wrapped Tablets

Peps

"The Remedy You Breathe"

THESE wonderful Peps breatheable tablets bring the valuable air-like medicine of the Pine Forests into direct contact with the throat and bronchial tubes. When dissolved slowly in the mouth, these valuable soothing and antiseptic fumes are liberated and carried with the breath deep into the chest and lungs—where liquid medicine cannot possibly penetrate.

Deep Into Chest and Lungs.

In this direct way, Peps allay soreness and inflammation inside the bronchial tubes. They cut choking phlegm and quickly clear and strengthen all the breathing passages. Peps have solved the problem of ending throat and bronchial troubles without the aid of dangerous drugs like laudanum, chloral, morphia, etc.

Stoke Assumes Lead

The Arsenal made no mistake at home when they received Wolverhampton who were swamped to the tune of 7-0. Sunderland shared points with the Wednesday, and Stoke, winning 3-1 against Preston North End, has assumed the lead on the strength of a better goal average.

Bolton and Brentford are still in the lead in the Second Division; Reading, winning at home, has taken the lead in the Southern Section from Charlton, who went under to Watford; Tranmere and Halifax, the leaders of the Northern Section both registered wins. In the Scottish League all three leading teams drew.

RUGBY

Navy XV Goes Under To Club

In an exciting match played on the Club ground on Saturday, the Royal Navy's Rugger XV. went under to the Club by 12 points to eight. The home team scored two tries and two penalty goals against a goal and a try by the Navy.

The Club were the first to score, McGilchrist touching down after a nice bit of combination with Lammert. Robertson failed with a difficult kick. The Navy returned to the fray with renewed vigour after this reverse, but Robertson and Turner came to the rescue. A penalty goal awarded to the Club resulted in Castleton landing an excellent goal.

Nothing daunted, the Navy continued to play good rugger and were rewarded when Kelburn crossed over. Roome converted a difficult kick. Before the interval, however, the Club were again awarded a penalty with which Castleton made no mistake.

In the second half, the Club had all their work cut short to hold the Navy forwards. Eventually Marsh broke through with a splendid effort which Roome failed to convert.

The teams were as follows:—

Club:—R. Goldman; W. H. B. Rigg, L. G. Robertson, G. P. Lammert and H. R. McGilchrist; M. W. Turner and H. C. Meeke; A. F. Walkden, W. E. Peers, G. A. Stewart; I. H. Bradford, S. H. Garrod; K. A. Munro, D. A. Cumming and J. Miller.

Royal Navy:—Lt. Pack-Beresford (Bruce), Pay. Sub. Lieut. Biggle (Kent), Lieut. Clark (Keppel), Sto. Marsh (Suffolk) and Lieut. St. Clairford (Orpheus); Lieut. Cheyne (Olympus) and Lieut. Forbes (Phoenix), Comdr. Roome (Medway), A. B. Sowden (Whitehall), Lieut. Collard (Adventure), Lieut. Evans (Suffolk), Lieut. Whitfield (Falmouth); E. A. Hammett (Phoenix), Lieut. Kelburne (Falmouth) and Lieut. Sowman (Kent).

A PERMANENT CHALLENGE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Nov. 12.

Like the Martyrs' Memorial at Oxford, the Alfriston cross seems to hold a permanent challenge for unorthodox Alpinists.

This is not the first time that historic cross has come to grief in the same way. Visitors to Alfriston usually noticed that the top part had been mended.

During the war three care-free Canadian soldiers from the Canadian camp at Seaford tried to climb the cross together. Both it and they suffered severely.

The broken-off top part was missing for some time after the escapade. It was later recovered from the River Cuckmere near by.

FIVE YEARS FOR OFFICER SPY

Captain To Lose Civil Rights

Paris, Nov. 12.

Capt. Froge, of the Quartermaster-General's Staff at Belfort, a distinguished wartime officer, who carried his regiment's flag under the Arc de Triomphe after the Armistice, was sent to prison for five years by a Civil Court at Belfort for espionage.

The trial, began in an atmosphere of tense excitement—armed guards preventing the crowds from approaching the building—ended in gloomy silence.

Stanislas Krauss, the Polish spy, who was also on trial, was sentenced to a similar term of imprisonment.

As soon as the presiding judge had announced that the sitting was public, Maitre Jean Legrand, Froge's counsel, made a short speech insisting that the proceedings should be reopened in view of fresh facts which had been brought to his notice last week.

"You have a heavy duty to perform to-day," said Maitre Legrand, addressing the judges. "Tragic events may follow your decision.

"You have no right to judge in such conditions. For months we have been a prey to the machinations of the French secret service. Are you not afraid that it will be said if you refuse a supplementary inquiry that in this case everything is crooked and suspect."

PLANS OF BELFORT

The public prosecutor declared that none of the facts raised by Maitre Legrand was new. He, therefore, insisted on an immediate judgment.

M. Dieudonne, the presiding judge, summed up briefly: Froge had betrayed documents concerning French national defence to Stanislas Krauss, the Polish spy, who had delivered them to a foreign Power.

The disappearance of the plan for the defence of Belfort territory was due to Froge. Everything which Krauss had affirmed when stating that he had met Froge secretly several times in Paris and Belfort had been confirmed.

Froge's speculations on the Paris Bourse, the judge stated, were both grave and dangerous.

The sentence, besides condemning Krauss are to bear the cost of the case, or to serve six months' extra imprisonment. Notice of appeal was lodged.

WORLD PEACE

Nepal's Attitude Stated

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Nov. 12.

The Nepalese Minister had his first big public engagement recently, when he received at the Legation in Kensington Palace Gardens, not far from the Soviet Embassy, members of the East Indian Association and many others. He took the opportunity of stating the attitude of his country towards world affairs, and it made remarkable hearing. The representative of this remote Asiatic nation, whose warlike qualities have made them famous in the past, declared that "the solution of the present difficulties lies not in arsenals and armaments, but in a change in the outlook of those guiding the destinies of nations." He looks for "a brotherhood of man under the Fatherhood of God." As for Nepal's policy towards British India, he quoted a phrase of Sir Denys Bray's: "We have no policy, only friendship."

Sir William Birdwood, who has the distinction rare among Europeans of having twice visited Nepal, spoke with affection of Ghurka friends of his younger days. He reminded his hearers that after the great Indian earthquake Nepal refused to accept a penny of the relief funds raised in England, saying that the needs of Northern Bihar were greater than her own. Nepal has already completed out of her own resources 75 per cent. of the necessary restoration work.

After the speeches Dr. Arnold Bake, who spent several months in Nepal in 1931, showed films and lantern slides of the country and its people.

"SAFER FLYING" INVENTOR

Prof. James Gordon Gray Dead

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Nov. 12.

Prof. James Gordon Gray, whose discoveries in applied science have been of inestimable value to the progress of aviation, especially with regard to personal safety, died in Glasgow, at the age of 58. He was unmarried.

Among his many inventions for use in aerial and marine navigation and national defence were:

Gyroscopic helms and stabillisers;

Artificial horizons;

Cloud levelling apparatus; and

The inductor compass (used by Col. Lindbergh in his Atlantic flight).

He also was the inventor of a number of gyroscopic spinning tops and animated gyrostats, magnetically controlled. These were the subject of a most amusing demonstration before the Royal Society of Arts last May.

Prof Gray said on that occasion: "I have made fifty specially constructed spinning tops and hope to make another fifty. I can make a gyroscopic horse to prance, canter, gallop or what you will, and I have designed a two-wheeled motor car, which is self-steering."

In 1925, in the presence of the King and Queen, he gave a demonstration before the Royal Society, in London.

His father, the celebrated Professor Andrew Gray, F.R.S., had done valuable work in mathematical gyroscopics, and greatly wished his son to follow in his footsteps. James Gray was, in his days at the University College of North Wales, only interested in athletics and football, but the fascination of the gyroscope eventually lured him into the paths of science.

Work With His Father.

Working under his father at Glasgow, he was appointed in 1904 to the teaching staff of the Natural Philosophy Department of the University, and with him he planned the building and equipping of the new Natural Philosophy Institute there. In collaboration with his father, he wrote in 1911, "A Treatise on Dynamics," of which revised editions appeared in 1920 and 1931.

Since 1920 he had been Cargill Professor of Applied Physics at Glasgow, and had published about 150 scientific papers and patent specifications. It is only recently that many of his discoveries became known, as they came under the Official Secrets Act. They were of the utmost importance to the sea and air fighting Forces during the war, when he was one of the leading research workers for the British and American Governments.

Before his appointment to the Cargill Chair at Glasgow University Professor Gray had been asked to accept a professorship at Pittsburgh, U.S.A., but declined in favour of continuing at Glasgow.

Previously he had been directing the gyroscopic control of the photographic apparatus employed in a great scheme of mapping and surveying by means of photography from aeroplanes which had begun in the United States. The advisers of the corporation who were carrying out that work told him they could find nothing to compare in accuracy with his apparatus.

GRAFTED EYES

Amazing Operation

Almouth, Mass., Nov. 20.

Mrs. Dapne Muir, one-time blind British novelist who now sees with parts of another woman's eyes, talked of darkness and light here before leaving for Boston to appear as the living exhibit of one of surgery's greatest "miracles."

The petite, bobbed-haired-writer, wife of Dr. Raydon Muir, of Capetown, will show the American College of Surgeons results of two history-making operations by Dr. Tudor Thomas, the Welsh specialist, that restored her sight after nearly ten years of blindness.

The surgeons will see a pair of normal-appearing blue eyes which do not need glasses to read headlines, large type and large handwriting—thanks to the grafting genius of Dr. Thomas and the sacrifice of another woman who, almost blind and incurably so, offered the healthy part of her own eyes so Mrs. Muir might see again.

"Rotten Experience"

The novelist came to America as a sightseer but was induced by Sir Harold Gillies, the London specialist, to show her new-made eyes to the Congress of Surgeons. Since other specialists could thus learn more about the epochal operations, Mrs. Muir felt she "owed it to humanity" to appear before them.

It was a "rotten experience," the novelist exclaimed as she narrated the story of her lost sight and the tortures that preceded its return. "Don't believe anyone who tells you that there's a spiritual uplift in blindness."

Mrs. Muir became blind about ten years ago while undergoing and appendix operation at Capetown hospital. A doctor spilled an anesthetic on her eyes, burning the corneas—transparent parts of the eyeball covering the iris and pupil. She awoke from the operation to find her sight gone.

"For four long years, I was in dreadful agony," the novelist continued. "My personal physician told me not to do anything about it, to stick it out until Mr. Tudor Thomas of Cardiff completed certain eye-grafting experiments on rabbits and dogs. I waited, and last autumn Dr. Thomas was ready for the first of the operations."

Performed a year ago last September, this prepared Mrs. Muir's eyes for the actual grafting operation, which occurred in April this year. The burned corneas, now white and opaque, were removed and corneas from the eyes of the almost-blind woman grafted in their place. Describing the final operation, the writer said:

Operation Described

"The experience was decidedly unpleasant. They didn't give me any general anesthetic, because my assistance was required, so I had only a small local anesthetic. At Dr. Thomas' direction, I had to move my eye balls at times during the operation so the new tissues could be grafted properly."

It is said to be the first double eye operation in surgical history.

Her blindness made Mrs. Muir a novelist. Bored by her sightless existence, she turned to writing and in 1929 produced her first novel. In all, she has dictated five novels, the last, "Very Heaven," being the most successful.

Although by no means perfect, Mrs. Muir's restored sight is such that she has been able to discharge an attendant who for nine years was her guide and companion. Ordinary light, in or out of doors, does not bother her, but in strong sunlight she wears dark glasses to protect her eyes.

"I can see well enough to get around about as any normal person would," she said, "although I'm still loath to try a busy street crossing."

PASS, FRIEND

"Have you the firmness of character that enables a person to go on and do his duty in the face of ingratitude criticism, and heartless ridicule."

"I ought to have. I cooked for a camping party last summer."

HITLER AS PATRON OF OLYMPIC GAMES

Berlin, Dec. 1.

Following the well-established tradition that the Head of the State in which the Olympic games are held, assumes the patronage of the event, Hitler in a letter to the President, Dr. Lewald notified the Organising Committee that he was prepared to accept the honour and at the same time wishes the Committee every success in the preparations for the great event in 1936.

In spring, 1933, the late President von Hindenburg had accepted the patronage but through his death the post of honour has fallen vacant.—

'THE FLYING DUTCHMAN'

London, Dec. 1

"The Flying Dutchman" gave many friends and admirers of the British Isles keen delight by considerably lowering all her own previous records. The distance from London to Leeds of 186 miles hitherto covered in 3 hours and 13 minutes was travelled on Friday in 2 hours and 32 minutes and the return trip in 2 hours and 37 minutes, the speed at times reaching 100 miles per hour.—

THEUNIS CABINET

Brussels, Dec. 1.

The new cabinet of Theunis made a programatic declaration before the Senate on Friday when the Premier declared once again that the Belgian currency would be kept absolutely stable and that in face of the nation's great gold reserves the Government would never permit inflation.

The Senate carried the motion of confidence in the Government by 90 votes to 63.—

MACEDONIAN TERRORIST DEATH SENTENCES

Sofia, Dec. 1.

The twelve death sentences pronounced by court martial against members of the illegal Macedonian "revolutionary organisation known as Imro, prove that the Bulgarian Government is determined to purge Bulgaria from this notorious terrorist gang which is believed to have had a hand in planning the Marseilles assassinations. Those condemned to death by court-martial, sitting in Nevrokopand and Gorna-Djumaja, had to answer for the murder of a former burgomaster and a number of other political murders, and the courts will deal in the course of the next few days with numerous other outrages committed by the organisation—

AUSTRIAN REVOLT

Vienna, Nov. 30.

The trial of 28 Austrian nationalists who participated in the July uprising and were prisoners by the Government forces in sanguinary fighting on July 26 near Lamprechtshausen in the province of Salzburg, in the course of which the insurgents lost 10 dead and many wounded, ended on Friday with all the accused found guilty of high treason and sentenced to various terms of hard labour totalling 257 years. The three chief defendants were each given 18 years, while the other sentences ranged between four and ten years.

SCHUSCHNIGG'S REVIEW

Vienna, Nov. 30.

Emphasising that "since the name of Austria has existed in European history it has had preeminently German significance" Chancellor Schuschnigg gave an exhaustive account of Austria's political development during the last year at the opening of the newly Constituted Federal Diet, which had been preceded by a solemn celebration of Mass in the famous St. Stephen's Cathedral in which all the members of the Government and Diet participated. Reviewing the progress of the economic field, the Chancellor stated Austria's position had considerably improved in the course of the past ten months, export having risen by eighty million schillings, equivalent to an increase of 13 per cent. In conclusion Dr. Schuschnigg referred to the education of the nation's youth declaring that though the State would assume responsibility for their physical training and inherent feeling to duty towards their Fatherland the task of intellectual and religious education was most difficult and would be left to the Church.—

MEMEL DIRECTORIUM RESIGNATION

Berlin, Dec. 1.

The sudden resignation of the directorium of the Memel territory under the presidency of Reisgys is attributed by the German Press to a conversation which recently took place in Geneva between the Lithuanian delegates, Klimas, and Lord Privy Seal Eden and M Laval who are said to have intimated to Klimas that the signatory Powers would not tolerate further breaches of the Memel Statute. Some papers even consider it possible that Capt. Eden and M. Laval were acting on the basis of conclusions reached by the Judicial Commission inquiry which demanded the Reisgys directorium to resign.—

PROFESSOR SENTENCED

Weimar, Nov. 30.

The noted professor of philosophy of the university of Jena, Dr. Johannes Leisegang was sentenced on Friday by the summary court here to six months' imprisonment for having made deregatory remarks concerning Hitler on the occasion of the latter's speech at the funeral ceremony of Hindenburg last August 7. Leisegang was stated to have called it "degrading that a corporal should deliver the speech in honour of the Field Marshal," this referring to the military rank held by Hitler during the World War. The court took the view that defendant's remark showed him to be a person of extremely reactionary views incompatible with the ideas of life in the third Reich.—

LESSON SERMON

First Church Of Christ, Scientist Hong Kong

"ANCIENT AND MODERN NECROMANCY, ALIAS MESMERISM AND HYPNOTISM, DENOUNCED" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 2nd.

The Golden Text was "Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God." (III John 1: 11)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. And I heard a great voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethern is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night." (Revelation 12:9,10

The Lesson Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "That false claim—that ancient belief, that old serpent whose name is devil (evil), claiming that there is intelligence in matter either to benefit or injure men—this is pure delusion, the red dragon; and it is cast out by Christ, Truth, the spiritual idea, and so proved to be powerless." Norwegian Laid-up Tonnage

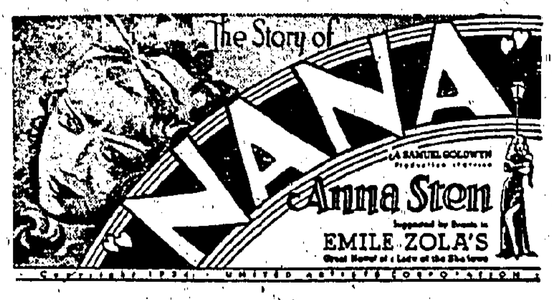
According to the statistics compiled by the Norwegian Shipowners' Association, there was a substantial decrease in the laid-up tonnage during September. This was due to the re-commissioning of a large number of tankships. There were 70 Norwegian vessels, of 360,483 tons dead-weight, including 24 tankers, of 222,015 tons, laid up on October 1, compared with 87 vessels, of 487,403 tons, including 38 tankers, of 360,130 tons, on Sept. 1. The laid-up tonnage on October 1 represented 6.8 per cent. of the foreign-going tonnage under the Norwegian flag, compared with 9.2 per cent. on Sept. 1. It will be noticed that the idle tankers diminished by 14 vessels and 138,115 tons. Taking vessels of all types, there was a reduction during September of 17 vessels and 126,920 tons.



CHAPTER IV.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Nana, a girl of the shadows, living in Paris in 1868, is taken up by a Mr. Greiner, a powerful theatrical producer who, struck by her singular beauty and personality, takes her into his theatre, trains her, and presents her to the public in his newest revue, in which she is a tremendous sensation. At the same time he makes love to the girl, and she accepts his caresses, because she knows if she doesn't, he will fire her from the theatre and the life of luxury and ease she has grown to love. The opening night she meets George Muffat, a good-looking young officer, who frankly tells her he is quite smitten with her and asks her to dinner. She refuses, but sets a tentative date for a later assignation with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

What with the show, which the whole of Paris was fighting and clamoring to see, and Greiner, who was still as insistent with his love as ever, and the new element in her life, her love for George, Nana had but little time for rest. So, when the show closed for the summer, she was heartily thankful to leave for a villa which she rented in the South of France.

There we see her now, Nana, the gossip and delight of France and the entire world.

Nana stood before a mirror in her luxurious bedroom. Perfumed and gleaming, just out of her bath, this body of hers, she thought, must be God's greatest treasure to any woman. She caressed herself, feeling warm and satisfied. Her thighs, swelling graciously, at the hips, seemed pills of unmarked marble, losing themselves in a fleecy, cloud-like heaven, the heaven of her thoughts. Her bosom, too, she thought, must also have been born of heaven, so white and soft it seemed. Her hair brought her visions of a field of fragrant flowers. Strange thoughts ran through her head as she surveyed herself like a proud kitten all-abundle in a new silk bow. She wondered if she had been right, or if at anytime she had neglected or abused this miraculous body. Half in a dream, she reviewed briefly to herself, the Past. She thought of the packed theatre, and of audiences that clapped endlessly after her act. She thought of Greiner, and of the disgusting habit he had of a wing over her. Thank God, now, at least she was rid of him, for a spell. He was safely enough in Paris. Then, as she thought of someone else, her breath quickened, and her mouth, a rose-bud coveted by so many men, broke into a whimsical smile.

George. George, the kind, the loving—the only man she had ever known who gave, without asking. He had given her his heart, and unquestionably, she returned hers; they were as one she thought, inseparable as the atoms of rock. They were made for each other. It was inevitable that they should have met; they had, and now they were to be one, eternally one.

Nana was happy now, happier than she'd ever been, happier she thought with a shudder than anyone had a right to be. But this fear was short-lived. She chuckled inwardly.

She had planned too carefully to have anything go wrong now. George and she were all that mattered, and she had so arranged it here in this far-off place. Right next door in the neighboring villa George lived with his brother Andre, and Andre's wife and child. Every evening George slipped quietly out of his house, and like a lover from a fairy tale, came to her arms in the still of a Riviera night. There together, yet alone, in the silence of the night, with a warm soft wind playing through the open windows of her room, Nana had experienced with George what she had never known before—LOVE!

Even Satin, she reflected, was smart enough to keep her mouth shut on those few occasions when Papa Grenier came to see Nana, and Zoe, Greiner's old friend, whom he put in charge of the Villa to watch over Nana, had grown amenable when some money was dangled before her greedy eyes. "No," Nana thought, "nothing can happen. This heaven will go on forever, just like the Heaven I learned about in Sunday school."

Her reverie had progressed several seconds which seemed delightful hours, when a noise at the window gave her a slight start. Few ladies, interrupted in the intimacy of toilette or love's young dream, could have turned as she did, with an immediate smile of unruffled confidence.

It was George. He peered over the edge of a window, his face wreathed in a smile.

"Never have I seen you looking so exquisite before as you do in that gown, darling——"

Nana ran over to him and embraced him closely, warmly.

"You've seen it often enough; I don't see what is so surprising now," she taunted.

"Ah," he smiled, "but mostly I've only seen it at night."

Laughing happily, Nana helped him into the room and held him at arm's length, looking him over greedily, up and down, her eyes seeming to devour him piece by piece.

"Oh darling," she murmured, "I do love you, I love you more than anything else in the world. You are my world—my sun and moon and stars, my very life."

Passionately she embraced him, showering him with kisses from her warm red mouth. And George responded, making love to her, to the woman who had changed him from a boy into a man, the woman who had given him a reason for living, and an escape over-night from flames of which his whole life had previously seemed composed.

After a while they sat smoking on Nana's divan, near the open window. She was looking at him, her eyes following every movement of his face.

"You know, darling," she said, "nothing can ever separate us. We're one for all time."

"Yes," he smiled, "even with Greiner. You must leave him and be my wife."

"Why," she said, "it's not necessary. I can have you, whom I love most of all, and I can have the theatre and all it brings me, too, if we go on as we have. If I tell Greiner to go to the devil, much as I would like to, he'll throw me out. And, darling, I really do want to stay on the stage. There's nothing to worry about. I love you, I can't tell you how much—and you love me. That's all there is to it." Then added coyly, "You do love me, don't you?"

George smiled. "Love you? Do I love to breathe? I can't help but love you. But, Nana, darling, I'd feel so much more secure if I were to be married to you. Something might happen to us as we are. Something that would tear us apart. And that would be my end. It will finish me."

Nana laughed. "Nobody's going to separate us. We're what we are for all time, all eternity. Anyway," she laughed, "you're a soldier. If anyone tries to come between us, why you just take your trusty gun, and 'Bing'—you've shot him, and there's no more danger. He's dead."

But George was serious. "Nana, don't be silly. I don't fear a man—or a beast or anything I can see and kill, and that be the end of it. I fear something else."

She smiled indulgently.

"What are you driving at, what is there to fear?"

George didn't speak for a long time, and when he did there was a hesitating furtive quality in his voice.

"Something insidious. Something no one can see, and no one can stop. I feel it, darling. And that's all. I feel sure of it. And if anything ever breaks us up, it will be tearing my heart right out of my body. My losing you will be my death knell."

His voice was louder.

"And Nana, darling, I think it's coming. Something in me says so."

Nana laughed. "Nonsense," she said, "nothing's going to happen to us. Why this can't ever stop. It's too beautiful and fine and noble . . . it's too . . ."

". . . It's no use, Nana," he interrupted, "I know something will happen. It's inevitable that Fate will never allow any two human being to be so happy for long. It's in the cards, darling, and we can't see the player who is dealing them"

(TO BE CONTINUED)

"If anyone tries to come between us, you're a soldier... you just take your trusty gun and shoot him"

AT THE KING'S

Harold Lloyd's New Role

Abandoning the adolescent roles, the stunts and paraphernalia which first helped to make him one of the world's outstanding motion picture comedians, Harold Lloyd returned to the screen of the King's Theatre, a new, full-grown man and record-breaking audiences, their faces aglow with laughter, and their cheeks with intermittent tears, bid him a lusty heartfelt welcome!

For in "The Cat's Paw" his latest vehicle in many, many months (which must have been dull indeed without him), he is an unexpectedly different Harold Lloyd, a type of comedian whom film audiences will not be prone to forget or tire of so easily.

Prior to the filming of "The Cat's Paw," Mr. Lloyd adamantly announced that he would remain off the screen indefinitely unless his exhaustive researches were productive of the ideal story. To-day, few persons, no matter how carping their critical faculties, can gain-say the star's final judgment without exposing their own sanity to question. In short, and to everybody's way of thinking, Harold Lloyd found what is indubitably the finest story of his whole career (and he has had some mighty fine ones) when he chose Clarence Budington Kelland's famous serial and best-selling novel.

The new type of role alluded to provides Harold Lloyd with a character of a missionary's son who is taken to China as a little boy. There he grows up in the dreamy traditions of the township of Cheng-tu and the philosophical sayings of the past Ling Po. Attaining manhood, and none but Chinese girls available as future mates, the young man is returned to America with instructions to find a wife! What happens to him when he arrives and is hurled into the fury of a helter-skelter American city, and his courtship of Petunia Pratt (played by the wise-cracking Una Merkel), is too grand to divulge, so please don't divulge it even after you've seen 'The Cat's Paw" yourself.

THIS SPORTING AGE

At The Alhambra

Lovers of the polo game and of horses should not miss this picture which will be shown for the last four times to-day at the Alhambra. It is a picture full of thrills, spills and chills of an international polo match with the strangest duel that was ever fought—for a woman.

Holt is faced with the sad task of shooting his pet polo pony "Grey Ghost" when his leg is broken, (being the fastest polo pony in the state of California), in one of the most exciting and dangerous polo games played in Hollywood, let alone recorded on the screen. (Actually, of course, Grey Ghost's leg was not broken. For the movies, though their motto be realism, are none the less humane.) Holt is supported by a sterling cast headed by Evalyn Knapp, Ruth Weston, Hardie Albright, Walter Byron, J. Farrell MacDonald, Shirley Palmer and Nora Lane in "This Sporting Age," a story as sleek and leathery as a new saddle. Taken from a story by J. K. McGuiness, this Columbia picture was co-directed by A. F. Erickson and Andrew Bennison.

THE SCARLET EMPRESS

Marlene Dietrich's Greatest Role

At the Queen's Theatre, Marlene Dietrich is to be seen in one of the greatest roles of her career in "The Scarlet Empress" which is a story of the early life of the Princess who was later to become Catherine the Great.

The picture is a good one from a historical point of view and gives a good insight of the careful upbringing of Catherine, who however, because of her marriage to the imbecile, Peter III., was driven to assert herself in the Royal household.

The story is cleverly told and there is a martial note throughout the picture that one cannot fail to enjoy. The musical accompaniment is carefully thought out and is very effective. The scenes before the climax are gorgeously produced and the element of romance is finely drawn out.

At the 9.30 performance on Saturday Miss Jere Lee and her "Madcaps" band entertained and the theatre enjoyed a full house. Miss Lee's "kids" provided the theatre's patrons with plenty of "peppy" entertainment including comedy, dance, solos and special musical numbers.

CHINESE GOODWILL MISSION

Despatch to Philippines Recommended

Shanghai, Nov. 30.

A meeting of the Sino-American Trade Council has adopted a resolution to recommend that the Chinese Government send a goodwill trade commission to the Philippines during the next Spring carnival.

It will be recalled that a simular commission from the Philippines visited this country last April.

It is also suggested that Chinese merchants participated in the carnival with exhibits of Chinese products.—Reuter.

C.B.S. BAZAAR

In Aid Of Dr. Barnado's Homes

All the fun of the fair, amusement for young and old were available at the Bazaar and Garden Fete held on Saturday by the pupils and Staff of the Central British School in the school grounds in aid of Dr. Barnado's Homes. A large gathering of friends, pupils and parents were present when Mrs. Ralston, wife of Mr. J. Ralston, Headmaster of the school formally declared the fete oepn.

The Chairman, Mr. Ralston before asking his wife to declare the fete open said:

Ladies and Gentlemen, Boys and Girls.—This Bazaar and Fete owes its inception to the initiative and enterprise of the boys and girls of the school from whom alone the idea came. It is a homely self-contained effort cheerfully and disinterestedly undertaken by all concerned.

Charity covers a multitude of sins and I believe the stall-holders mean to stop at nothing short of theft. After experiencing the predatory powers of our assistants I am sure Chinese Communist Bandits will hold no terrors for you.

Thanks are due to all the children, parents, staff and many friends, but I think especially to Miss Knill on whom the brunt of the work has fallen and to whose untiring efforts and ingenuity the success of the bazaar is mainly due. (Applause.)

Mrs. Ralston replied.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—I hear that Hong Kong is suffering at the moment from one of the worst epidemics that have ever visited it—Bazaars. I trust that nobody here has been innoculated and feel sure that most of you, being parents and friends of the children of Central British School are already "contacts." Therefore you are almost certain to be victims of the attack. The children, I know have been carefully watching you for the symptoms for weeks past and are here fully equipped with remedies to help you get it out of your system.

The real motive of this Bazaar I must be quite frank with you, is I believe purely activity—that activity which stirs in every good school and must be released if the children are to fulfill themselves. Fortunately here it has been inspired to direct itself for the benefit of other children in less happy circumstances—the waifs of Dr. Barnardo's Homes.

I appeal to your fathers, mothers, uncles, aunties and friends. You will be plagued to chance your luck in tickets, to overeat yourselves at tea, to buy numberless odds and ends and even to attend a Dramatic performance by the Fourth Form; but if during this afternoon the thought occurs to you that the money is going to children who have no such friends, I think you will be happy and proud of the privilege to support the children here in their effort.

From a purely business standpoint you will get value for your money. Boys and girls are essentially fair on that point. They will see to it that there are no recriminations to-morrow.

I thank the pupils and staff of C.B.S. for the honour they have done in asking me here and have much pleasure in declaring the Sale of Work now open. (Applause)

It was revealed that the sum of $971 was realised at the fete, but this sum does not include the raffle tickets sold outside.

A farce entitled "Archibald" by W. Graham Robertson was performed by pupils of the 1V form and was thoroughly enjoyed by those who witnessed it.

The following were the prize-winners:—

Around the Courts

POSSESSION OF ARMS

Arrested in Li Chi Kok Road, Kowloon in possession of an automatic pistol without an appropriate license, Tang Wa, a coolie made his appearance before Mr. Hamilton at the Kowloon Police Court on Saturday morning.

The defendant pleaded guilty and added that the pistol was not his own. A friend of his gave it to him sometime ago.

His Worship then imposed a fine of $500 or in default six month's hard labour on the defendant, and the pistol was ordered to be confiscated.

Convicted on a charge of cutting and wounding a foki employed at the Shamshuipo Ice Factory, a 20 year old Chinese seaman was sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. E. W. Hamilton yesterday. In passing sentence his Worship pointed out that the offence was a serious one and the defendant might have killed the man. The victim was allowed out of hospital to give evidence, but it was stated he would have to return there for about a fortnight. He had been there since November 9.

Two Chinese Hu Sak and Li Hung, appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy on Saturday morning charged with keeping opium divans and unlawful possession of prepared opium.

Both defendants pleaded guilty and the Magistrate then imposed a fine of $60 on the first defendant and another of $50 on the second.

MUNSANG COLLEGE BAZAAR

To Help In Building Fund

A very successful bazaar was held at the Munsang School on Saturday when a large range of knitted and embroidered articles, toys and confectionery, besides a number of attractive side shows were offered to patrons.

Mrs. Hall, wife of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Hall declared the bazaar opened at 2.30 p.m. and a very brisk business was done. The Headmaster of the School Mr. Rufus Huang, stated that they were badly in need of an appropriate school building of their own and expressed the hope that the bazaar would be generously supported. He said that the present premises were rented at a cost of $8,000 a year.

SHOTS AT SHEUNG SHIU

Bullet Attack Last Week

At 10 o'clock on Friday night a shooting incident occurred near the Sheung Shui Police Station which is being investigated by the police. It appears that a Chinese revenue officer was proceeding down his garden when he was fired at from close range. This man immediately made for the Police Station and his assailants followed him there, firing shots at him all the way, a number of rounds actually hitting the walls of the charge-room. No casualty was reported.

A vigorous search of the neighbourhood has not so far resulted in the discovery of the assailants. The whole episode lasted only a few minutes.

DANGEROUS FLYING

Coroner's Sharp Rebuke

Shanghai, Dec. 1.

"It is about time something was done to stop this kind of dangerous flying," declared the United States coroner at the inquest on the airman, Lieut. Edward Dorsey, killed at Hungjao while stunt-flying in a Boeing fighter.

This was the second flying tragedy in four months, the coroner added.

The Far Eastern agent of the Boeing Air Company, for whom Lieut. Dorsey was a pilot, said that the flier was performing aerobatics without permission. He testified that Lieut. Dorsey was stunting only 75 feet about the ground for the benefit of a friend who was taking motion pictures.

The inquest was adjourned.—Reuter.

MARSHAL CHANG AT CAPITAL

Nanking, Dec. 1.

Marshal Chang Hsueh Liang arrived here to-day from Hankow at noon aboard the steamer Chang Hsing, accompanied by the Mayor of Tsingtao, Mr. Shen Hung Lieh, General Wang Yi Chieh, and others.

Questioned regarding the progress of the anti-Red campaign in the territory under his administration, Marshal Chang Hsueh Liang said that the areas eastward of the Peiping-Hankow Railway had been cleared of Communists. Only isolated bands were still operating to the west of the railway.

Marshal Chang is remaining here until the conclusion of the forthcoming Plenary Session of the Kuomintang and the Central Executive Committee.—Reuter.

MR. SUN FO LEAVES

Important Mission To South

Shanghai, Dec. 1.

Mr. Sun Fo and Dr. Wang Chung Hui left for Hong Kong this morning aboard the s.s. Athos. They were farewelled by the Finance Minister, Dr. H. H. Kung, Major Wu Teh Chen, Dr. C. T. Wang and other notables.

A member of the party expressed optimism regarding the trip, and said that public confidence and opinion are strong factors for influencing an agreement between Nanking and Canton by peaceful means.

Dr. Wang Chung Hui may remain in the South longer if necessary. Mr. Sun Fo and Dr. Wang Chung Hui will confer with Mr. Hu Han Min. It is understood that their visit to Canton will depend on the outcome of the conference with Mr. Hu in Hong Kong.—Reuter.

ANNUAL CHURCH PARADE

Scottish Company Of H.K.V.D.C.

Headed by the Pipe Band the Scottish Company of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps held their Annual Church Parade yesterday at the Union Church. The Company was under the command of Capt. H. R. Forsyth with Lieut. A. W. Brown second in command. The Pipe band was under Pipe-Major Mackie. Their turn out was smart and impressive.

Rev. E. G. Powell conducted the service which was largely attended and amongst those present were the Chieftain and Mrs. A. S. Mackichan, H.E. the Governor, H.E. the G.O.C. Major General O. C. Borrett and Mrs. Borrett, Admiral Sir Frederic Dreyer, Commodore Frank Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. B. Wylie, the committee members of St. Andrew's Society and many others.

Subsequent to the parade, the Chieftain and Mrs. Mackichan were "At Home" to members of the Scottish Company and their friends at the Volunteer Headquarters and in proposing the toast of the Company, Mr. Mackichan said that it gave him great pleasure in welcoming the gathering there that day, but he did not want to say much on this occasion after what they all had gone through the last few days. He congratulated the Company on their smart and efficient turn out and thanked them for the services which the Company had performed at the St. Andrew's Ball in supplying the Guard of Honour and the Pipers at the function.

Capt. Forsyth before calling for "three hearty cheers" and a "tiger" for the Chieftain and Mrs. Mackichan, in a short but witty speech thanked the Chieftain for the kind and complimentary remarks about the Company, and, in turn, congratulated the Chieftain for the magnificent way in which everything connected with the St. Andrew's Society was performed under his guidance.

After the cheers were given the gathering partook of refreshments.

DANCE DISPLAY

Miss Capell's Pupils Rehearse

At the Queen's Theatre yesterday morning, a full dress rehearsal of the dance display to be given on Friday by the pupils of Miss Violet Capell took place.

There is no gainsaying the fact that this year's effort has capped all previous displays given by the pupils of this talented dance instructress. The tiny boys and girls were equally at home in the numbers as were the seniors and the programme of nineteen items in which sixty of her pupils take part, went with a swing yesterday.

The "Swan" dance by Helen Ho was a combination of grace and talent that would do credit even to a more mature performer, while the "Sun" dance by Peggy Ma, daughter of Dr. C. K. Ma, was extremely graceful. Peggy Stringer and Nora Witchell in "College Days" revealed how versatile they were with their feet and E. and V. Black in "Pierrot and Pierrette" will certainly have to give an encore when the show comes off on Friday. The Flower dance in which M. Eume and K. Taylor appears is a treat to watch while Dorothy Craig shows promise of becoming a dancer of high talent when she went over the "Ballet."

It would be impossible to mention all the participants in this clever display, but it is only fair to include here the names of B. Penny, V. Bradbury and P. Wood who gave a wonderful display of skipping to music.

The sceneries were very beautiful indeed and the costumes some which have been designed by Eunice and others by the Miss Capell and Miss Violet Bradbury were most attractive. In the "Toy Town" Ensemble which is the opening act in the second half of the programme, there is a scene of toyland, complete with Felix the Cat and Red Riding Hood, which is sure to delight the hearts of any little children who may have the opportunity of seeing this show.

The whole programme was gone through with such success and despatch that it seems certain that when it is presented on Friday to the public it will be an unqualified success.

"ROSE DAY"

St. Vincent de Paul Society's "Drive"

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul, the well known local Catholic Charity Organisation made their annual Rose Day drive on Saturday when pretty sellers were to be seen all over the Colony and the mainland and by noon almost every individual had a rose.

The result of the drive was $100 better than last year's figure, being $5,654.71.

The largest individual amount was collected by Miss Siu, who brought in $163, while Miss Cissy Noronha collected $136.41. Mrs. J. P. Sherry brought in over $77.00.

The Society wish to thank all those who helped in organising the sale and the collectors, also the Cecil Hotel for the use of the room for a depot, and those firms which provided refreshments for the rose sellers.

Ladies in Charge of Districts.—Mesdames: J. P. Sherry, L. Thrillwell, Costello, Hunt, A. W. da Roza, W. Hedley, M. Everest, C. M. Larson, Rev. Sr. Beatrice, and the Misses F. Dixon, L. Osmund, E. Alves, M. Basto, C. and T. Noronha.

"Rose Day" Helper Injured

Miss Margaret Choy met with a distressing accident on Saturday when attempting to enter a bus for the town from Happy Valley, where she had been in connection with the "Rose Day" drive on Saturday. She had completed her sales at the Jockey Club's entrance. Apparently the bus which was crowded, started off before Miss Choy had stepped inside it from the footboard and she was flung out again. Unaware probably that an accident had happened, the bus proceeded on its way.

When the members of the Jockey Club heard of the accident they did what they could for Miss Choy who had fainted in the meantime. Dr. S. To Wong, happily, was on the scene and brought her round. She was sent home, where upon examination, it was found that she suffered no more serious injuries than just a severe shock.

REPULSE BAY HOTEL

Enjoyable Dinner Dance

Society attended in select numbers at the Repulse Bay Hotel Dinner Dance on Saturday night and marked their approval of the action of the Management in restarting this weekly function that has proved so highly popular in the past.

It was a pleasing sight to see such a goodly number of the Scottish community present despite the late hours of the previous night's festivities at the St. Andrew's Ball.

The new dance band "The Grenadiers," under the leadership of Ben Constantino should prove to be a great attraction to this beautiful hotel where dancing can be enjoyed amidst ideal surroundings.

Hong Kong may look forward with keen expectancy to many delightful Dinner Dance nights in the near future.

FANLING HUNT OPENING MEET

Brilliant Prelude To The Season

In England, which some of us still rather reluctantly, remember, the opening meet of our Hunt season is something to be anticipated, enjoyed, and remembered. It is pleasant to see that some of the home-side customs are repeated in Hong Kong.

On Sunday, the Fanling Hunt held its opening meet. The Hunt, as most of you will know, has recently been placed upon the more permanant basis of a committee. Captain Fennell, of the Royal Artillery, has been appointed Secretary, while Mr. Wall of the Lincolnshire Regiment has taken on the office of Huntsman.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S ADVICE

The opening meet was held at "Annandale" by the courtesy of Mr. W. J. Keswick, who was host on this occasion. The bungalow might have been made for the purpose. In the grounds, suitably grass grown, the ponies made metallic noises with their carefully selected bits, while higher up on the lawn their owners (or riders) made similar noises against the hospitable glasses provided by Mr. Keswick.

After a suitable interval for adequate refreshment H. E. The Governor addressed a few words to the Field.

H.E. The Governor's Address

His Excellency said that, in the unavoidable absence of Dr. McGowan, he wished to make two points clear to the field. The first was to underline the fact that the farmers over whose country they hunted were poor men, and that many of them depended for their livelihood on growing vegetables. He asked the field to be particularly careful not to ride over these crops. The second point was that, knowing the almost traditional crustiness of golfers fairways were to be regarded as completely forbidden ground.

Following His Excellency's speech, Colonel Nosworthy briefly defined the difference between the Fanling Hunt, and the Fanling Hunt and Race Club. The former, he said, was completely separate. The subscription was $25 as a minimum subscription for each member hunting. This subscription does not entitle anybody to the use of the Hunters' Arms or Fanling Race Course.

The Hunt

Shortly after this, hounds moved off towards Potts' Bungalow. The wind was from the north and they layed on rather earlier than the huntsmen, perhaps, (and certainly the field), had anticipated. A fast short line across the river to Lo Wu camp doubled back and finished near Dills Corner. After fifteen minutes check hounds were off again hunting fast and well together. This was a hunt for the man (or woman) with his or her bowler hat well rammed down. Down the lane by Potts' Bungalow, the line completed a circuit of the old point-to-point course, alongside the edge of the ninth fairway of the Fanling Golf Club to a keen finish a quarter of a mile to the south of Potts' bungalow. From there, after a well deserved rest, a contented field hacked back to the Hunters' Arms for recriminations and potations.

Bouquets

Very great credit is due to those members of the hunt staff who produced and hunted hounds in such good order. Mr. Skey and Mr. Morris were whipping in, and very well they did their job. Seldom have I seen hounds of this type of pack hunting so well and so closely together.

I noticed some hounds, of a rather curiously brown tint, whom I believe have been specially bred for this colony by Mr. Denbigh-Jones, of the Aberystwyth Fell Hounds. The experiment has been abundantly successful.

There were some grief. Mr. Archer and Mr. Ravenhill both voluntarily declined to remain upon their mounts. Lieut. Commander Fenton, who dismounted in good order at the check, had the misfortune to watch his pony undress himself. In succession he shed his stirrup leathers, his bit, and finally his head collar.

Still, as I always say, there is nothing like a good day in the country.

A KEY TO BRITISH POLITICS

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's return to London after a long rest in Canada synchronized with the annual conference of the Conservative Party of which he is not a member. Representatives of the party which holds the fate of the present Government in its hands, were assembled, and yet the man who heads that Government does not belong to it. Throughout the greater part of his life he has been its declared opponent. To-day he owes his position to no powerful following of his own, and can retain it only so long as the Conservatives wish.

Why, one may ask, is he so valuable to the Conservatives that they are willing to have him as Prime Minister instead of their own leader, Mr. Baldwin? The answer is partly given, but only partly, if we say that they wish to assert before the country and the world the national, or non-party character of the present regime at a time when that regime is obviously controlled by their own members. The very powerlessness (in the party sense) of the ex-Labour Premier gives him added power as a symbol of the submergence of party in a unified state.

He enables the Conservatives while exercising control to demand support from those who under other circumstances might be diverted to Labour. Moreover he makes it possible for them to take decisions for which in the future they may not be held fully responsible.

But the course of the debates at the annual conference shows that there is another reason why at least some of the Conservatives should welcome the presence in the Government both of Mr. MacDonald and some Liberal minister. It is abundantly clear that there is as great a difference between left-and right-wing Conservatives as there is between left and right-wing Socialists.

At the conference nearly half the assembly opposed the reform scheme for India; the remainder warmly espoused it. The first group is inclined to be suspicious about international action through the League of Nations; the second favours it. The first is all for "laissez-faire" individualism in industry, the second for a forward move in insisting on co-operation. The one exaggerates the needs for big armaments, the other is moderate in its demands. The right wing would throw off Mr. MacDonald and abandon co-operation between parties; the left clings to the method of National Government.

The predominant wing, to which Mr. Baldwin himself belongs, has little sympathy with old Diehard Toryism, and would identify itself with much that was formerly thought of as Liberal. The more progressive Conservatives are in sympathy with the middle body of opinion which is most characteristically British. Diehard Tories, then, are inclined to wish for the ending of the experiment of National Government; progressive Conservatives desire its continuance, because it gives more opportunity for the moderate application of progressive ideas.

Thus the disunity among Conservatives preserves an apparent unity of three parties in the National Government. Therein lies the key to much of the present political situation in Britain.

JOINT DENUNCIATION OF NAVAL TREATY

France Declines Japan's Invitation

EXTERMINATION OF RED ARMY

General Chang's Report

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

NANKING, Dec. 2.

Communists and bandits in Hupeh, Hunan and Anhwei will be completely wiped out within a month according to General Chang Hsueh Liang, second in command of the suppression forces in these provinces, who arrived yesterday noon from Hankow by the s.s. Changhsing to attend the Central Executive Committee session.

General Chang stated that the twenty-eighth Red Army had been entirely exterminated while the twenty-fifth was partially destroyed. At present there were less than a thousand remnants of his campaign in the territory attempting to penetrate Szechuan which will be effectively checked from now on. Rehabilitation was the most urgent task.

By the same steamer Mr. Shen Hung Lieh, Mayor of Tsingtao, is reporting to President Wang Ching Wei and General Chiang Kai Shek on municipal affairs. He announced the floating of $1,500,000 public bonds in January, secured on the wharf surtax for further material for construction and cultural development.—China United Press.

A Sadly Deserted City

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

FOOCHOW, Dec. 2.

With the recovery on November 26 of Tsingliu, West Fukien, the units of the 52nd Division are descending on Ninghua, the only remaining Red stronghold in Fukien.

Luh Sing Yung, Commander of the Division, has telegraphed that three bandit officers and 30 outlaws were killed during the fall of Tsingliu which was sadly deserted during the Red occupation. The population is only 200, mostly aged people and youngsters. Besides searching for remnants and attending to relief of the refugees the troops are repairing the city walls and erecting block houses. China United Press.

COTTON CROP BOOM

Bright Outlook In North West Provinces

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.

According to Mr. Jung Tsung Ching, industrial magnate of Shanghai, who has returned from an inspection of the North West Provinces, the cotton crop there has enjoyed a booming season. A 1,000,000 piculs yield is estimated, which is expected to be considerably increased in view of the frequent snow recently.—China United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.

"International reverberations" are likely to follow fresh sensational evidence to be made public on the resumption of the Senate special munitions investigating committee on Tuesday.

According to a well-informed source, it is stated that evidence will be called showing that arms manufacturers have made efforts to sabotage the peace and disarmament conferences and a thorough inquiry into the relation of the traffic in Great Britain and other countries may follow. Some members of the committee claim that they have definite and detailed proof of attempts to wreck the conferences.

The hope is expressed in certain quarters that such disclosures would induce the nations to accept the United States plan submitted to the Disarmament Conference for international supervision of the arms traffic.—Reuter.

S.S. TAISHAN LOST

Four Bodies Found With Lifebelts

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.

The Chinese steamer Taishan is believed to have foundered with all hands on board. The vessel, carrying a heavy cargo, left Tsingtao for Shanghai on November 27 and was reported missing in a typhoon between these ports.

There has been no response to wireless enquiries. H.M.S. Bridgewater, which was proceeding to Shanghai from Wei-hai-wei followed the path taken by the Taishan and to-day found the dead bodies of four Chinese floating with lifebelts attached to them about a hundred miles south of Tsingtao. Two belts were marked "Taishan" and the others bore no marks. The Bridgewater is still searching the vicinity.—Reuter.

TYPHOON WARNINGS

The following telegram was received by the American Consulate yesterday from Manila, despatched at 3.20 p.m.—

There is a second typhoon in about 126 degrees Long. E. and 13 degrees Lat. N., moving W.N.W.

The Hong Kong Observatory reported at 6.20 p.m. yesterday that the typhoon was situated about 60 miles to the East-south-east of the Paracels moving slowly W.N.W. The Pacific typhoon was about 300 miles to the east-south-east of Manila, moving W.N.W. or N.W.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Lady Peel left on the P. & O. Carthage for Taiping, F.M.S. for a short visit. She is expected to return before Christmas.

Captain A. Poland, D.S.O., R.N. and Mrs. Poland were passengers on the "Carthage." Capt. Poland was in command of H.M.S. Medway, Submarine Depot Ship of the 4th Submarine Flotilla, China.

Only one case of Enteric Fever was reported to the Health Authorities during the 24 hours ending Nov. 30.

Among the first of the Christmas holiday functions to be announced is the New Year fancy dress ball at the Kowloon Cricket Club, from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m.

A report was made to the Police yesterday to the effect that Mrs. A. H. Potts lost, while shopping in the city on Thursday, an emerald stone from her ring, valued at $600.

The next musical production of the H.K. Philharmonic Society will be "Hiawatha." Rehearsals are to commence to-day in the Cathedral Hall, and all interested will be welcome. The rehearsals commence at 5.30 p.m.

At the tea party to be held at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce premises, to-day at 3 p.m., Mr. Soong Fat Keung, Chinese Consul at Batavia will be the guest of honour and will speak on the distributions of Chinese trade, touching especially on Chinese trade with the East Indies.

A sale of work is being held in the Helena May Institute to-day Lady Southorn has kindly consented to open the sale at 3 p.m. There will be woollens, fancy goods, home produce and sweet stalls as well as side-shows, refreshments, etc. The proceeds are in aid of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home.

The second meeting of the winter session of the English Association will be held in the Helena May Institute to-morrow at 5.30 p.m. Mr. G. P. de Martin, who is so well-known in the Colony for his entertaining and illuminating addresses, is going to speak on "Some Impertinences of Precision."

Only .13 inch of rainfall was recorded at the Botanic Gardens during November.

A rattan basket, containing a towel, a bathing costume, a packet of sandwiches and half a cold chicken was picked up yesterday in Garden Road. The "find" is at the Central Police Station awaiting a claimant.

Drs. Arthur W. Woo and F. I. Tseung have returned to the Colony on December 1 per s.s. Conte Verde after a world tour. It is learnt that Dr. Tseung has studied in hospitals in London, Dublin and Vienna besides visiting America and other European countries including a trip to the Mayo Clinic and the health Section of the League of Nations at Geneva.

The Hong Kong Singers are, at the request of the members, shortly resuming rehearsals. As it is the intention slightly to increase this choir, all those who have desired membership and any others interested (all voices) are asked to communicate with the Hon. Conductor, Mr. J. Anderson Miller, 6, Luna Building, Kowloon, telephone 50283.

If Gossip We Must

(BY "CHANCE")

Seen at the Races

What a busy week the past one had been for Hong Kong! First of all we had the pianoforte recital at the Helena May Institute on Monday and those who have attended these affairs in the past must know how enjoyable an evening like that in the Helena May can be. Earlier in the day we had an opportunity of attending the pearl exhibition at Komor's and there was so much to buy—if one had the means, but alas! your poor scribe had to be content with just "window shopping." On Thursday there was the "Les Sylphides Ballet" at the King's Theatre and in the evening Admiral Sir Frederic Dreyer gave a ball on board the flagship, H.M.S. Kent, while the Navy celebrated the Royal Wedding by "dressing ships" with electric illuminations. Seldom have I seen such a brilliant display in the harbour, so a pat on the back for the Silent Service.

ST. ANDREW'S BALL

Friday dawned bright and cheery and all the Scots in Hong Kong must have felt grateful that they were to have brilliant weather for the day of days—St. Andrew's Ball. In the morning the Chieftain, Mr. Mackichan, and party laid a wreath at the Cenotaph and at night the community met at the Peninsula Hotel where one of the most brilliant gatherings of the season dined and danced. A description of the affair has already appeared in the local press but I cannot resist describing some of the pretty dresses I saw.

As there were quite a number of striking gowns it's very difficult to mention them all.

I just caught a glimpse of Lady Peel after supper—who was in a white gown—while Lady Southorn was in rust silk—Mrs. MacKichan also favoured white—and Mrs. Borrett was in blue.

One of the smartest dresses there was worn by Mrs. Garrod—wife of Mr. Stanley Garrod of the C.P.R. She was in brown moire silk with the new high front and back to the gown. Mrs. Digby who I saw enjoying herself immensely dancing the Reel was dressed in blue satin which was very becoming to her. Mrs. Bowes-Smith was in blue velvet—and Miss Angus chose white lace.

I must say Miss Jean Mackie, looks extremely well in white—whilst Joan Priestly could not have chosen a prettier gown than that green she wore. The lady I thought was the smartest there was Mrs. Amps—looking beautiful in a straight cut gown of black silk taffeta with ruching round the hem of the skirt.

There were a good number of the American community present. I noticed Mrs. Howard in a flowered silk gown—while Mrs. Marshall had on a beautiful black chiffon velvet gown with a beaded top, was there with Mrs. Taggart.

Miss Helen Wylie was in blue, and near her I noticed Mrs. Dovey dressed in cream satin combined with red. Another person seen at supper, was Anne Fowler in Eau de Nil green with silver and green lame top for her gown.

Mrs. Alec Potts looked very charming in a green dress. Miss Alabaster, having just returned from Home, was in brown and accompanied by her father and a friend.

Looking very fit after being away was Mrs. Bagram, in black with a brown mink cape.

The programme after the races, was to go to the Queen's to see the Scarlet Empress, and hear Miss Jere Lee with her all American girl orchestra—which we give Miss Lee full marks for. After the show we made a "bee line" for the first floor of the Hong Kong Hotel, where we got in those couple of extra precious hours of good dancing, which goes for the making of a Brighter Hong Kong. As was to be expected, the place was crowded with a jolly bunch of merry makers. A representative gathering of the leading Fashion Houses were also present. Mrs. Bryte had a gown of black and orange, was in the company of Mrs. Hill and Miss Allen. Mrs. Pearce had a party which also included Mrs. Betty Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Mackintosh looking very well after their vacation in the Homeland, had a nice party which included Miss Webster. Also back from leave and seen at the Hotel, were the Misses Gerrard looking as pretty as ever. I was attracted by the persistent stare of a young man, and in following his "line of thought" I noticed none other than our jolly friend Mrs. Moody Heddle.

Seen at the Course

AT THE RACES

Gilbert Harriman must develop a tremendous thirst talking to all his friends and "enemies" and dashing up and down the members' section. Mrs. Hamilton seen chatting with Mrs. Lindsell was in a yellow suit with brown beret.

A REAL FLYER

No sooner had some of us got over the effects of "the night before" than we were heading for the Race Course on Saturday where thrills galore awaited us. The first sensation came when Mr. Tang Man Wah steered Flying Tourist past the winning post ahead of the rest of the field to pay his backers $657.60. That, however, was not all for in the last race of the day another big dividend was forthcoming when Tillicum came in first. As for the main race of the afternoon, the St. Andrew's Stakes, Liberty Bay won in a canter but enough said so far as the actual racing is concerned.

I believe Mrs. Rosselet was one of the lucky ones winning a first prize in the sweeps. There were a lot of new faces, whom, I suppose represent the new relief of our Army.

THE CHURCH PARADE

The Scottish Company of the Volunteer Defence Corps turned out at full strength at the Union Church yesterday for their annual Parade. As usual it was a great success and the Company presented a very smart appearance, marching to the strains of pipe music. There is something about bagpipes that "gets one," and while on the subject of bagpipes, I wonder why is it that the Indians have a partiality to it.

By the way who was it that said "imitation is the best form of flattery?"

A NAVAL OCCASION

Lovers of Hong Kong, who are prolific in the use of adjectives, must last Thursday have found themselves purple-faced and gasping. In honour of the Royal Wedding, all H.M. ships had adorned themselves with electric lights, and innumerable schemes of pyrotechnic decoration adorned the harbour.

The piece de resistance, the "naval occasion" of the evening, was the dance given by Admiral Dreyer and his officers on board H.M.S. Kent. The ship was beautifully decorated in red and white, with a roof of striped awning. The dance floor was festooned in flags and gold braid, and the whole affair gave one the agreeable sensation of being incorporated in an expensive musical comedy.

The Governor and Lady Peel were present, among a gathering of all the most prominent members of Hong Kong Society. One advantage of Naval dances such as this is that the uniforms make a background for the female element. There is not the same hopeless black and white foundation. Certainly the ladies took advantage of their setting.

Among the bevy of beauty and/or wit assembled, I noticed many attractive frocks. Mrs. Packer looked extremely smart in black and white with a green tartan jacket. Mrs. Reiss wore white with a large and imposing silver sash. Recently returned to the colony, Diana Dodwell looked amazingly successful. There is something almost shattering about the increased vitality of people who have been away. Others who have just returned to the fold were Eileen Bonnar who favoured nigger brown with rust-coloured trimmings, and Rosalie Alabaster, in white lace taffetz. Mimi Compton, I thought, looked very "easy on the eye" in black velvet with a silver three quarter length coat. Others whose frocks I liked were Mrs. Bousfield, in white satin with a red velvet sash and bow, and Mrs. McLean in pink satin.

UNDERSTANDING WITH AMERICA

Ambassador Bingham's Advice To Britain

London, Dec. 2.

That there is a greater chance now than ever for an understanding and co-operation among English-speaking people was emphasized in an interview granted to the "Observer" by the American Ambassador, Mr. Robert Bingham who declared that the old epigram "the American President proposes and Congress disposes" no longer holds, pointing out that President Roosevelt is the only American President who had ever increased his majority in a mid-term election.

Mr. Bingham is convinced that if Britain reached are understandwith President Roosevelt it would be tantamount to reaching a bonding and lasting understanding with the nation for President Roosevelt would never propose anything to Congress he was not certain Congress would endorse.

"If the British Empire and the United States agreed on solution of any problem of diplomacy, no combination of influences could challenge its decisiveness. Wall street no longer dictates to Washington. Dollar diplomacy has gone The United States offers a new reliable basis for confident diplomacy.

"If Britain and America grasp firmly the present opportunity to initiate close diplomatic co-operation, the world would be relieved of its panics and every diplomatic problem in the world would solve itself," says Mr. Bingham.

In the light of Mr. Baldwin's and General Smuts' recent pronouncements on what should be the tendencies of British policy, Mr. Bingham's views assume a more significant meaning. Reuter.

COMPLAINT TO THE LEAGUE

Marseilles Crime Responsibility

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, December 1, 7.30 p.m.)

London, Dec. 1.

Several newspapers including the "News Chronicle," and the "Daily Herald" report that all efforts of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald to persuade Prince Paul of Yugoslavia to adopt a more moderate line of action regarding the charges against Hungary proved to be vain. Mr. MacDonald is reported as having proposed that the League of Nations Council at the next session in the coming week should pass a resolution condemning the activities of terrorist organisations and then appoint a committee of three to examine the charges against Hungary for the January session when steps for the suppression of subversive organisations would be taken.

PRINCE PAUL

Prince Paul rejected the compromise, saying that it would provoke an internal crisis in Yugoslavia, but demanded unyieldingly that the League of Nations Council should unequivocally establish Hungary's responsibility for the Marseilles assassinations because Hungary had granted asylum to the known terrorists.—Transocean Kuo Min.

"OUR NAVY SHOULD BE SECOND TO NONE"

American Navy Secretary's Emphatic Views

Washington, Dec. 1.

America's determination to build up her Navy to treaty limits is reaffirmed by Navy Secretary Swanson in his annual report for 1934 which indicates simultaneously that the United States might be willing to reduce her naval strength if the other Powers did likewise, "but it is my firm conviction that the interests at stake justify and require that our navy should be second to none," he says.

The most important event during the year for the Navy was the enactment of a law establishing the strength of the Navy and authorising the construction of vessels and aircraft to bring the Navy to the prescribed treaty strength and replace ships as pass the age limit, involving work on seventy ships at present.

When this construction is completed within the next thirty months, the Navy would still be short of full treaty strength by about seventy eight ships and it is to be hoped that Congress will continue to appropriate the necessary funds from year to year for replacements.

The Navy Secretary is urging the need for additional officers and men and says that 86,815 enlisted men are required in the coming year, but appropriations permit only 81,500. At least 7,000 line officers are necessary to man the treaty strength of the Navy and an increase thereto will be requested.

Referring to aviation Mr. Swanson says: "I firmly believe our naval aviation under the present system is second to none in efficiency. I am of the opinion that any radical changes such as the formation of a united air service will be a serious mistake."

The naval discussions going on in London at present are not mentioned by Mr. Swanson—Reuter.

FRENCH POLICY ATTACKED

Fiery Speech In The Chamber

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, December 1, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, Dec. 1.

After M. Laval's speech before the French Chamber in the course of which the French Foreign Minister urged Hitler to "translate his desire for peace into practice" and in which he further said that there exist no territorial issues between France and Germany, the nationalist firebrand, Franklin Bouillon, mounted the rostrum and delivered a fierce attack on Germany, on the French foreign policy; which he alleged for the past fifteen years had been proceeding from bankruptcy to bankruptcy, and finally engaged in a spirited oratorial duel with Jean Goy whose Berlin journey he once more subjected to fierce criticism.

Never, so the nationalist firebrand asserted, would an understanding between France and National-Socialist Germany be possible. He attacked Germany's Saar policy and lashed at Deputy Monnier who had accompanied Goy to Berlin whom he accused of moral depravity. There was in fact none he did not attack, save himself, and the Chamber listened to him with serious attention.

Goy who mounted the restrum next was repeatedly interrupted by the Communists and Socialists and even Radicals. Goy vainly tried to bring home to his opponent, Bouillon that his (Bouillon's) policy would lead to nothing else but preventive war on Germany. There is no other way if one translate Bouillon's policy into practice, so Goy declared.

Bouillon protested against these conclusions, whereupon Goy asked his opponent whether it would not be better to come to terms with Germany. "The German Front fighters stretched out their hand to us and we by reacting to this move have no other aim but to serve the cause of peace," was Goy's closing remark. Only a handful of deputies applauded Goy.—Transocean Kuo Min.

BANK STABILITY RUMOURS

Denial By Hong Kong And Shanghai Bank

Shanghai, Dec. 1.

The Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank here, interviewed by Reuter, branded as quite unfounded the rumours concerning the Bank's stability.

The shortage of cash at some agencies is purely temporary, due to the restrictions imposed by the Chinese Government on the remittance of silver dollars from Shanghai to outports, which are interfering with the seasonal upcountry demand for money to finance export trade.

Everything is being done to overcome the difficulty as soon as possible. Reuter.

COURT ROOM SENSATION

Jurors' Connivance With Burglar

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, December 2, 4.30 a.m.)

Bucharest, Dec. 1.

A trial by jury held in the city of Cernautzi had to be broken off under most extraordinary circumstances on Saturday when a number of jurors who had just been sworn in, were arrested in the court room on a charge of being mixed up with the very burglar gang whose guilt they were supposed to decide.

The trial of the notorious burglar Bilinki and his gang had just got underway and twelve jurors had been selected when the public prosecutor arose and addressing the judge, demanded the immediate arrest of five of the jurors on the strength of a police report which had just been received and, according to which, one juror was Bilinki's henchman while the other four had spent the preceeding night in a drinking bout with the families of the chief accused.

Amid great tumult, the judge ordered the arrest of the five men who evidently had been smuggled into the jury in order to bring about the acquittal of the band.—Transocean Kuo Min.

LATE SIR ROBERT PARKS

Constructor Of World Famous Works

London, Nov. 30.

Sir Robert Parks, who died today at the age of 85 years, had a distinguished career as an engineer and financier, and was concerned with the construction of some of the world famous works, including the Manchester Ship Canal, the Forth Bridge, the Transandine Railway, the harbour at Alexandria, the quays and harbour works at Rio de Janeiro, and port extension works at Buenos Aires. He was a pioneer in railway developments.

A FEDERATION AS THE DISTANT IDEAL

New Fact Which Emerged In The Indian Situation

London, Dec. 1.

"When we began to grasp the true dimensions of the India problem, we became convinced that the ultimate scheme must be one which took into account the future relationships between two constituent parts of greater India and the Indian States. There is only one India and it is greater India which includes the Indian States as well as British provinces," says the report on Indian constitutional reforms.

The Report of the Joint Select Committee recommended a federation including both the Indian States and British provinces. The argument for such a scheme was elaborately set out in the Simon report. A point on which there was difference between their view expressed four years ago and the view of the Joint Committee was that when they wrote the Simon report it appeared very improbable, at any rate for a considerable time to come, that Indian Princes and Indian States would be prepared to come into a federation with the British.

"We regarded a federation as the distant ideal. We thought that if provincial autonomy could be established in the first place this would contribute some day to the possibility of a federal India. But since we reported there has been a new fact. We were commissioners, but we were not prophets, and it was not till after we had reported that the new fact emerged. In January, 1931, a great Indian Prince, who was Chancellor in the Chamber of Princes, speaking not only for himself but for a large body of Princes whom he had consulted, declared that the Indian Princes were already prepared for federation but that they could not federate with British India unless constitutional changes were made at the centre such as the Joint Committee have recommended."

Sir John Simon declared that the broad scheme of the Joint Committee should be supported. Referring in his Dumfrice's speech to the international situation, the Foreign Secretary depreciated talk about war which he said did not make for peace. He emphasised that the League was the chief instrument for promotion of peace and that it was a cardinal point of the British Government's policy to support and extend the authority of the League.—British Wireless.

INVITATION TO GERMANY

To Co-operate With France

Paris, Nov. 30.

In a written declaration, M. Laval covered all the burning questions of the day when he addressed the Chamber of Deputies.

He urged President Hitler of Germany, who had affirmed his will for peace, to join France in her Eastern European policy and urged Germany to re-enter the League of Nations.

The Foreign Minister, at the same time, declined in any way to accept the "de facto" situation created by Germany's re-armament.

He emphasised there would be no bi-lateral understanding between France and the Soviet with regard to the safe-guarding of the peace of Europe, though France was in full agreement with the Soviet in that connection.

A Franco-Italian rapprochement may be extended into a general European community, from which no nation will be excluded, he said. But the present frontiers must be maintained, he warned.

France would disarm when she has achieved a sense of security, M. Laval declared.——Reuter.

Lincolns Retain 100 Per Cent Record

(BY "PIVOT")

Frayed tempers were again witnessed in a Junior match on Saturday in which two Kowloon players were given marching orders. Duffield being one of them. This player was only recently suspended for a month for striking a player.

In the only Senior encounter of the day the Lincolns just managed to beat Kowloon by the odd goal in three, the Kowloon custodian giving a very delightful display.

In the second division game the Navy team was not very impressive, due, perhaps, to the poor opposition provided by the Eastern.

SENIOR DIVISION

KOWLOON v. LINCOLNS

A feature of this match was the fine goal-keeping of Boyes, the Kowloon custodian. He was an able substitute to Cord and his saves were, at times, brilliant. He was great at anticipating movements. Lincolns were very erratic and finished their well conceived movements weakly Ridley played a good game. For Kowloon the White brothers played well and Knox had his good spells.

From the start the Kowloon goal was raided and Boyes was called upon to deal with several quick shots. Knox was sent down the field and his shot was fisted out by Meaken. G. White scored to give Kowloon the lead. Lincolns retaliated very strongly and Ridley had bad luck when his header struck the bar and rebounded into play. Interval arrived with Kowloon leading by one.

After the restart the Lincolns were playing a great game, although they had some anxious moments. G. White tested Meaken on several occasions, during one of which the custodian had to dive full length to effect a smart clearance.

Towards the middle of the second half, the soldiers equalised through Higgins, who scored a great goal after receiving from English. A few minutes later, from the centre kick, Ridley ran through to score the winning goal. Higgins missed a glorious opportunity just before time when he skied the ball from 3 yards range.

JUNIOR GAMES

KOWLOON v. SOUTH CHINA

Listless and disinterested football was seen on the Kowloon ground when the two teams met. It was a relief to the spectators to hear the final whistle blown.

From a quick run down by the Kowloon forwards saw the ball returned to their area and Tang Chung Tak scored leaving McNider dumbfounded. Closely after Chau Tak-fai scored the second goal. Duffield was cautioned for dangerous play towards the middle of the first half. Frequent fouls being noticed.

After the resumption Kowloon scored through Pope but before long Kwok Yau Loy replied. Duffield was ordered off for fouling and immediately after Kwok again scored. Bad feeling crept in and it was not long that Hickman was also ordered off. Kwok scored two more goals towards the end.

NAVY v. EASTERN

Navy gave a very unimpressive display against the Eastern, but, perhaps the poor opposition had something to do with it. Wild kicking and lack of cohesion being noticeable.

Twenty minutes after the start the Navy was awarded a penalty but Glass shot over. Play was then quickly transfered from one end to the other and Males scored the first goal after the Eastern keeper overran. Glass passed to O'Donnell from a free kick and the latter crashed the ball into the net. After the restart, Glass receiving from Bright, passed on to O'Donnel who sent in a simple shot to put the Navy three up.

LINCOLNS v. ARTILLERY

By dint of clever football Lincolns beat the Artillery by four goals to one. Rush scored the first goal after a passing bout and they had bad luck in not adding to the score before the interval. After the resumption the Artillery pressed but to no avail. Rush, receiving a pass from Clayton, just managed to put the ball into the net. After Leach and Brown had tested the Lincolns goalie, play was transferred to the other end and Rush was again instrumental in netting. R. A. pressed and Leach sent in a glorious drive to net the Artillery's solitary point. Towards the end of the match Morton centred to McGuinness who turned the ball to Rush, the latter scored. Final whistle sounded with play transferred to midfield.

THIRD DIVISION

RAILWAY v. R.A.O.C.

The Ordnance Corps wrought havoc with the Railway defence penetrating them seven times. Ordance were down by two at the commencement, Ku Tatt scored both, and before the interval the Corps replied with one. After the restart they were all over the Railway and goals came quickly. Routledge all scoring six goals.

RADIO v. RECREIO

The Radio gave a sparkling display against the Recreio and ran out winners by five goals to one. Their inside trio combined well together. Souza completing his "hat trick" and Ayock and Hussain added to the score. Laurence scored Recreio's only goal.

R.A.F. v. POLICE

This game was not played due to the field being unmarked and nets not put up.

Yesterday's Games

A feature of yesterday's Senior games was the defeat of South China "B" by the Recreio who had the distinction of lowering the "B's" colours for the first time this season. In connection with this match the play was so rough and tactics so questionable that the referee had occasion to caution several players and two penalties were awarded to the Portuguese lads.

An Artillery player was ordered off for deliberate fouls against South China "A" and in the Police v. E. E. Lancs and Athletic v. Navy matches, two penalties were also awarded in each game. The general trend of play in the senior games seem to be deteriorating in that rough and dangerous play was the order of the day.

ATHLETIC v. NAVY

With a very much depleted team the Athletic managed to force a draw against the Navy at the Club ground yesterday. Their stalwarts were unable to turn out.

In their score of three goals the Navy had two penalties scored by Skinner through fouls for deliberate kicking.

The game opened with both teams having even exchanges. The Navy was slow on the ball whereas the Chinese made full use of it. After fifteen minutes play Tang Kong Sum centred and Mak Sui Hon gave Pepper no chance. Play was mostly confined to midfield and close to the interval Ho Chor Yin handled in the area, Skinner equalised from the spot kick.

After the breather play was brighter, both sides attacking in turn and both sets of defences stood out in good stead.

From a foul inside the Naval area Tam Kong Sang scored through a bunch of players but their lead was shortlived. Another foul was given against Lo Hon Chong, Skinner taking the kick with a rising shot for Cannell to head past the keeper.

Ding dong play ensued with the Chinese inclined to questionable tactics but the referee had the game well in hand.

Another dangerous foul against Cannell by the pair of backs inside

Civilians Win

The Yacht Club beat the Senior Service by a fairly big margin in a series of races yesterday. The Civilians obtained a commanding lead of 69 points over the Navy men in the morning race, and although the latter scored 131 to the former's 123 in the afternoon they could not wipe off the deficit, the Yacht Club winning on the day's events by 284 to 223.

In the following list the names of the observers are given in brackets.

WEEK-END CRICKET

H.K.C.C. Beat Navy: I.R.C. And Civil Service Draw

Four League matches were played during the week-end, two in the Senior Division and two in the Second Division. In the Senior Division, the Hong Kong Cricket Club defeated the Navy by 17 wickets after the latter side had amassed the big score of 174 runs to declare for 5 wickets. The slow but accurate bowling of G. R. Sayers was chiefly the cause of the Civil Service snatching a point from the Indians whom they entertained at Happy Valley.

The two Junior Division games which were played between the Indian Recreation Club and the Civil Service at Sookunpoo, and the Navy and the Club at King's Park resulted in wins for the Indians and the Navy respectively.

NAVY AND I.R.C. WIN JUNIOR LEAGUE GAMES

SENIOR DIVISION

CLUB v. NAVY

In a premier league encounter, the Hong Kong Cricket Club defeated the Navy by 7 wickets.

Batting first, the Royal Navy declared at 174 runs for 5 wickets. Lt. Bramwell played a brilliant innings for his 62 runs which included a six and seven boundaries.

In reply, the Hong Kong Club passed the Navy's total with 7 wickets in hand, an undefeated partnership of 110 between T. A. Pearce (83) and A. W. Hayward (63) was chiefly responsible. Pearce hit a six and ten boundaries in his innings and Hayward found the rails on 12 occasions.

The scores were:—

C.S.C.C. v. I.R.C.

The Indian Recreation Club and the Civil Service played a drawn game at Happy Valley when they met in a Senior Division League encounter.

The batting of the Indians failed miserably against the steady bowling of G. R. Sayer who with his slows took 6 wickets for 43 runs. The I.R.C. could only total 121 runs, A. R. Abbas was top scorer with 22 runs, while K. Nazarin another promising player from the Seconds played a stolid innings for 19 runs, who was the second top-scorer.

When stumps were drawn, the Civil Service had 3 wickets in hand. Only two batsmen reached double figure, R. H. Griffith scored 20, and G. R. Sayer hit up twelve. Arculli bowled well to take 2 wickets for 1 run in his 5 overs in course of which he had four maidens.

OUTSIDERS' DAY AT THE COURSE

Big Dividends By Flying Tourist And Tillicum

DUNBAR STABLE HAS GOOD DAY

(By "MORNING DEW")

Saturday's racing at the course was remarkable for the number of big dividends. Flying Tourist won the five furlongs for "C" class to pay the magnificent dividend of $657.60 for a win and $95.90 for a place. Another big dividend was paid by Tillicum in the last race of the day.

The "Dunbar" Stable collected three wins, with Oak Bay, Liberty Bay and Tillicum, whileSandy Bay finished second in one of the minor races.

Liberty Bay broke the record for the mile and a half by almost four seconds in the main race of the day. The full time provides illuminating study.

KING'S WARDEN FAILS AGAIN

King's Warden failed to win the "B" class mile, where Oak Bay, running at the top of his form won easily.

Nell Gwyn had leg trouble during her race and was beaten after running beautifully for six furlongs She entered the straight on the bit, when disaster overtook her.

The "Ewo" Handicap fell to D. L. Newbigging who, riding Kung, made full use of his 145 yards handicap. Two Clubs was passed at the head of the straight and Newbigging's mount went on to win comfortably with Keswick on Two Clubs finishing next. Black Velvet was a poor third, while the scratch pony, Punch, found his task too big. City of Shanghai finished fourth.

Oak Bay's Burst

Leading from start to finish Oak Bay won the Glasgow Handicap by three lengths from King's Warden with Soldier of Germany just nosing High Speed out of third place.

Oak Bay put in 1.26.2 for the first six furlongs and never was in danger of being overhauled. King's Warden came through with a rush at the head of the straight, but was never near enough to the winner at any time to look dangerous.

Liberty Bay's Record

Smashing all local records en route (except his own for a mile and a quarter), Liberty Bay romped home all by himself in the St. Andrew's Stakes over a mile and a half. Hetman paced him for the first half mile and then fell rapidly back, while Trentbridge filled his place, Liberty Bay finished all by himself. Hetman was third and Brilliant Star a bad last.

Partnership

In a spectacular finish Mr. H. C. Pih brought Partnership home in front of Sandy Bay and Iron Grey, just as I predicted he would. Partnership and Iron Grey were fifth and sixth entering the straight, where Sandy Bay enjoyed a lead of several lengths. It was practically on the last stride that Mr. Pih pushed Partnership in front of Sandy Bay to win by a neck. Iron Grey, who was boxed in most of the way was third, a length and half behind.

Crieff Handicap

The biggest upset in form in recent months was seen in the Crieff Handicap when Flying Tourist carrying only 13 tickets out of a total of 1943 came home a winner by a neck in front of What a Chance. Don was third a neck behind the second.

Wayward Stag led the field followed by What A Chance. The pace was terrific and after turning into the straight Wayward Stag faded out. What A Chance stayed on and just lost upon being challenged by Flying Tourist. Don just ousted Wayward Stag from third place.

Coogee Handicap

Nell Gwyn the favourite, after running beautifully round the course tired rapidly in the straight and had to be satisfied with third place. Alacrity won the race from Bright Star in a splendid finish in which Mr. Reidy's pony revealed plenty of "go." Mutiny Bay was never in the picture while Dinty ran well for half a mile and then faded out.

Little Beauty.

In the five furlongs for novices, Chesterfield got into the lead at the head of the straight after Bold Commander had shown the way in the first half mile. Little Beauty was well up all the way and taking the lead at the distance post won by half a length in a close finish. Delightful Chance, who was slow off the mark was third.

Another Upset

Favourites had another shock coming to them in the last race of the day when Mr. D. Black brought home Tillicum in front of Great Hall, Solar Star and Chief Seattle, three well backed ponies. His supporters were paid $193 for a win. Great Hall finished second, coming along in the last run in with a big rush and just missing the mark.

Chief Seattle led with Solar Star and Fudge over the first half mile but Davis' mount was well beaten a hundred yards from home. He finished fifth.

JUNIOR DIVISION

I.R.C. WIN

In spite of fine batting display by H. F. Westlake who scored 66 runs the Civil Service was unable to prevent the Indian Recreation Club from winning their second division league match by 5 wickets at Sookunpoo.

The Civil Service totalled 108 runs to which Westlake was the chief scorer, while the later batsmen failed miserably. A. Baker and S. Abbas did all the damage, the former taking 4 wickets for 25 runs while the latter had 5 victims for the same number of runs.

The Indians passed the visiting team's total when they only lost five wickets. A. R. Suffiad was in good form with the bat, scoring 47 runs, while Barma and Kitchell helped with double figure score. Westlake was the only bowler to meet with any success, he took 2 for 38.

WEEK-END SOCCER

the area saw Skinner putting the Navy ahead. Thereafter, the game quietened down and before the end Au Kit Fung headed the equaliser, also through a crowd of players to bring the teams on level terms. The result was a fair indication of the play.

SOUTH CHINA "A" v. R.A.

Play in this game was very uninteresting with the Chinese playing too much fancy football and inclined to take things too easy. The first half was very even and after the game had been in progress for about twenty minutes Wong Mee Shun put South China ahead. Interval arrived with no further score.

After the restart South China pressed continually and although the Artillery had their spells they could not penetrate the Chinese defence. Fung King Cheong, Tam Kong Pak and Ip Pak Wah added further goals. The game was inclined to be quite boisterous and the referee had occasion to order the Artillery right back off the field.

RECREIO v. SOUTH CHINA "B"

What a game this was! Both teams were on their toes and both teams had plenty to give and take. South China conceded two penalties for dangerous play and on the whole deserved to lose as their tactics savoured of dangerous play.

Play was very even in the first stanza with both teams on and off their defensive. Marques was tested on several occasions and he brought off his charges well. "A.V." was almost through on his own when he was heavily brought down from behind in the area. A penalty was awarded and Bowen made no mistake about it. Towards the close of the first half B. Gosano sent in a driver, the ball hitting the cross bar with the Chinese goalie well beaten.

Immediately after the resumption the Chinese ran down the wing and Yeung Sui Yick sent in a feeble shot which Marques fumbled and allowed the ball to slip through his hands.

Thereafter play became rough and dangerous and B. Gosano was fouled when he was almost through on his own. Bowen again took the spot kick and "aced" it. The referee had occasion to warn several players for dangerous play on both sides and although cautions were given, play was still inclined to be heavy.

From a run down the wing Alves centred beautifully for B. Gosano to head past the Chinese custodian. The Chinese were fighting hard to reduce the deficit and towards the end of the game, in a melee inside the Rec's goal, Sek Kam sent in a header through a bunch of players. Final whistle sounded with the Rec's boys still attacking.

EAST LANCS v. POLICE

In a game full of bumps and heavy football, East Lancs. and the Police shared a spoil of four goals. Two penalties were awarded the Police who managed to notch once only. Both sides scored once in the first half. Johnson for the Police and Lawton equalised towards the breather.

Immediately after the resumption a penalty was awarded the Police Channing took the kick and East Lancs goalie brought off a timely safe.

Fifteen minutes after the restart Ball increased the score for E. Lancs. to be followed closely afterly after by another penalty against them for a foul on Stephens—T. Pile made no mistake.

THIRD DIVISION.

R.A.S.C. v. LINCOLNS

At Kowloon the Service Corps defeated the Lincolns by the odd goal in three, thanks to a defender putting the ball into his own goal. On the whole they deserved their victory as they played the better type of football and was continually on the move. Beasley scored for the Corps and Mody equalised in the first half. In the second half play was quite even and the right half of the Lincolns had the misfortune to miskick into his own goal. Forsyth played a very sound and useful game for the Service Corps.

EAST LANCS v. R.E.

The Engineers were no match for the E. Lancs and went down to them by seven. They were three down in the first half and four were scored in the second. Sandford (4), Garswood, Grossley and Prichard were the marksmen.

FUTURE OF THE SAAR

Precautions To Ensure A Fair Vote

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Saarbruecken, Dec. 1.

A new step to ensure that no party should have undue advantage in its propaganda for the plebiscite has been taken by the Plebiscite Commission in a decree forbidding public display of any kind of inscriptions, placards and posters referring to the plebiscite.

All such announcements already posted up must be removed by December 10, each of the three parties being only allowed to erect hoardings of equal size to display election posters on making a special application to the district plebiscite office.—

WATCH ON TRAVELLERS

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Saarbruecken, Nov. 30.

A sharp watch will be kept on all persons entering the Saar territory from now till the plebiscite, according to a proclamation of the Governing Commission published in the papers on Friday by which all travellers must possess valid passports or identification papers which must be presented to the police for inspection within 24 hours of arrival, and if any person not being a Saar inhabitant in the sense of the provisions of the Plebiscite. Those staying longer than a week must apply to the passport department of the Governing Commission for a special residence permit. A strict control will be maintained on travellers, and all hotels and all Saar inhabitants have been requested to carry papers of identification with them in order to ensure a smooth work of the regulations which "are in the interest of peace and order during the period of the plebiscite."—

FRENCH ATTITUDE

Paris, Dec. 1.

If the status quo is maintained in the forthcoming Saar plebiscite and Saarlanders later appeal to the League as the de facto and de jure government in the Saar for return of the country to Germany, France would not oppose the return, said M. Laval replying to a question during the foreign affairs debate in the Chamber.—

OLD HISTORY

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Breslau, Nov. 30.

Citing historical data in support of the statement that the Saar territory was inhabited by Germanic races as long as 400 years ago and formed part of the domain of King Henry I of Germany in the year 925, the English historian, Sir Raymond Beazley in an address before a large and distinguished audience in the big hall at Breslau University on Friday, stressed that no other state but Germany had any right in the Saar.

Sir Raymond pointed out that in the census taken in 1910 only 342 persons living in the Saar described themselves as being French, and added that the 140,000 French people stated by Clemanceau in Paris at the Peace Conference to be among the Saar population were really inhabitants of Lorraine living in the frontier districts.

Dealing with the methods of the Peace Conference, the English visitor declared that historical facts were mostly neglected except where they could be used to support France's claim in the Saar. Beazley concluded his lecture by affirming his belief that a German victory was forthcoming in the Plebiscite and quoted the words of Napoleon III that "no peace is possible as long as the aspirations of the nation remain unfulfilled."—

LATE NIGHT CABLES

The following cables were received on Saturday night by the American Oriental Finance Corporation and Messrs. S. E. Levy & Co.:—

London Forecast

A slightly lower market in cotton is expected, although the "Spot" situation is tending to strengthen and pressure seems light.

Wheat is anticipated to open steadier in sympathy with Liverpool, owing to unfavourable weather conditions in Australia and the Argentine. The corn-belt is cold enough to stimulate demand for seed. There have been further snows in the south-west, where moisture is needed.

Rubber is expected to open higher.

A.O.F.C. New York Cables

The opening was mixed and very light but firm.

Cotton, the domestic trade is the chief buyer. There is no pressure to sell. Any improvement in out side demand would result in higher prices.

S.E. Levy & Co.'s Cables

The following cables were received on Saturday night by Messrs. S. E. & Co.:—

London Silver:—Spot: 24⅛, unchanged; Forward: 24⅛, unchanged.

London Silver Comment:—India and speculators bought. China bought and sold. Business small. Market quiet.

BRITISH BOXER INDEMNITY

Board of Trustees Meeting

Shanghai, Nov. 25.

The 25th meeting of the Standing Committee of the Board of Trustees for the British Boxer Indemnity Refund was held yesterday under the chairmanship of Dr. Chu Chia-hua, Minister of Communications. Members present included Messrs. R. Calder-Marshall, T. K. Tseng, J. Heng Liu, Yen Te-ching, and N. S. Brown. Mr. Tseng Yang-fu, Provincial Commissioner of Reconstruction for Chekiang, was also present as an observer.

Among the topics discussed were the following:—

1. The request of the Kiangsu Provincial Government for a loan of $1 million for the purchase of fishing vessels.

2. The joint application of the Ministry of Industry and the Chekiang Provincial Government for a loan for the establishment of a paper mill at Wenchi, Chekiang.

3. Examination of the Regulations governing the loan accounts of the Huai Ho (River) Conservancy Board.

These and other items, it was decided to submit to the 28th meeting of the Board of Trustees to-morrow.

A meeting of the Technical Committee was held in the afternoon under the chairmanship of Mr. Tseng Yang-fu. A meeting of the Educational Committee was also convened, with Mr. Li Shehua in the chair.—

DUTCH RUBBER EXPORT REGULATIONS

Batavia, Dec. 1.

The Netherlands East Indies Government have created export regulations both for estate and native rubber. From December 15 only officially recognised estate owners and dealers are entitled to hold stocks of over 100 kilograms; native owners are only entitled to hold stocks not exceeding twice the monthly production of their gardens; recognised exporters are not allowed to hold stocks whose total exceeds one-eighth of the regional export quota; and second-hand dealers are not allowed to hold rubber over a fortnight.—

JEWRY'S PEACE OFFER TO GERMANY

Berlin, Nov. 30.

The revelation that International Jewry had made a peace offer to Germany, on condition that the German Government changed its policy regarding Jews, was made by Herr Frick, Minister of the Interior, in a speech at Chemnitz to-day.

Herr Frick added that the offer was not worth considering. The Jews in Germany had no reason to complain of unjust treatment.

Speaking on behalf of President Hitler, Herr Frick emphasised Germany's peaceful intentions and declared that the Government was even now ready to conclude a just disarmament convention.—

NEW WEATHER STATION FOR AVIATION

London, Nov. 30.

A National Aviation Meteorological Association Station, to be used exclusively for broadcasting weather reports and forecasts, is to be erected by the Marconi Company, on behalf of the Air Ministry, at Cranwell, Lincoln.

The new Station, operated by the Air Ministry, will transmit meteorological bulletins at regular intervals throughout the day for the benefit of the pilots of air line operating companies and flying clubs. It is hoped the new service will offer a further valuable contribution to the safety of civil aviation.

The station will probably be opened early next summer.—

LONG DISTANCE TRAIN RECORD

London, Nov. 30.

A new British railway long-distance speed record was established to-day by the London and North Eastern Railway's "Flying Scotsman" engine, with four coaches, which, on an experimental run between King's Cross, London, and Leeds, covered 186 miles in 151 minutes.

The return journey took 157 minutes. The train consisted of six coaches on the return journey.

The highest speed recorded on the outward run was 94½ miles per hour, and on return 97½ miles per hour.—

THE SHARE MARKET

Harriman's Weekly Report

1st December, Hongkong

Mr. G. A. Harriman's weekly share report and market review issued at noon states:—

A much better feeling pervaded the market during the past week, and far more interest was taken in everything causing a general impetus to prices and trading which was far more brisk than has been the case for sometime past. Investment counters displayed most strength with Hong Kong Electrics bid up to $70½ and Hong Kong Lands to $52½. Telephones (old) were in demand at $23.35 with business done at this rate. Hong Kong Trams had enquiries at $19.80, and Wharves at $107. Dairy Farms came to business at $22.45 closing in demand at $22½. With the exception of Lane Crawfords, which took a slide to $3⅛, minor issues generally showed up better, China Lights (old) were again a very popular counter, large parcels of shares having changed hands at rising rates from $9.20 to $9.65 and corresponding rates for forward deliveries. Hotels remained very steady at around $4.95 cash and $5.05 January. Cements also improved with sales effected at $2.20/.35, closing in demand at $2.30 cash and December. Realties provided a notable feature of the week having recovered from $4.15 to $4.85. Providents (old) were dealt in at $1.45 and more shares could be placed at this rate. There was not much change in the Sterling section, Hong Kong Banks remained in demand at $1,600 and Unions at $510. The tone of the market at the close is more encouraging to traders and we look for more activity in the future.

Business during the week has been done at the following prices:—

Canton Insurances, $260.-
China Underwriters, $1.15
Wharves, $107.-/108.-
Providents (old), $1.45
Hong Kong Lands, $52.10
Hong Kong Hotels, $4.95/5.00
China Lights (old), $9.20/9.65
Hong Kong Electrics, $68.-/70.00
Telephones (old), $23.35
Cements, $2.10/2.35
Dairy Farms, $22.45
Lane Crawfords, $3.50
Realtys, $4.15
Antamoks, 73 cts./80 cts.
Gold Rivers, 21⅛ cts./22 cts.
Benguet Explorations, 20⅛ cts.

BERLIN BOURSE

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, Dec. 1.

The sharemarket continued to be exceedingly buoyant, all lines showing a more optimistic outlook than for some time past. Few buying orders were placed for fixed interest securities, but as little stock was offered the prices continued firm, especially in the case of provincial loans. Gold and Mortgage bonds also gained slightly. Call Money 3⅞ to 4⅛.

Though the opening of the sharemarket at the beginning of the week showed listlessness on the part of investors and the consequent crumbling prices, the second half week displayed great buoyancy. This began on Wednesday when an official denial was issued about the persistent rumours that the Government intended to confiscate all foreign stocks held by Germans. Confidence was returned and prices started to improve. On Thursday the upward trend received a smart impetus which continued right to the close of the week because the Commission sitting in the last fifteen months planning to reform the German banking system issued a comprehensive report which was immediately acclaimed by the business world as a great step forward towards putting the German economic life on a thoroughly sound footing.—

GERMAN LOAN PAYMENT

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, Nov. 30.

Although the German Government suspended in June last the transfer of interest payments on long-term foreign loans, the Reich Government has, according to a semi-official statement issued on Friday, paid to the Bank of International Settlements, as trustee for the Young Loan, a sum equalling one month's interest so that 1/6 of the nominal value will be paid on all coupons falling due on December 1.—

FRANCO-GERMAN TRADE NEGOTIATIONS

Paris, Dec. 1.

The Franco-German trade negotiations which begun two months ago were concluded here on Friday, the most important result being that the agreement of last July which also provides for the payments of interest on German loans will be prolonged for three months till March 31, 1935. The question of the liquidation of outstanding trade debts was also discussed and it is intended to facilitate the gradual liquidation of these debts by the clearing method.— Transocean Kuo Min.

AGREEMENT MERELY PROLONGED

Paris, Dec. 1.

The fact that the new Franco-German trade agreement which was signed here on Saturday afternoon merely prolongs the old agreement of last July by three months, is interpreted in official circles as meaning that both sides desired a short-term agreement in view of the forthcoming Saar plebiscite, it being understood that the commercial delegates of both countries will meet again with the object of reaching a settlement on a broader basis as soon as the definite regulation of the Saar question permits this being done.

SOVIET PRICES TO BE RAISED

Moscow, Dec. 1.

Following the abolition of the rationing system for bread and other foodstuffs, the Soviet Government has now promulgated a decree providing that prices for cotton and other agricultural products sold by peasants directly to the State be raised by ten to fifteen per cent.

The decree declares that since wages have been raised, the new prices will afford fair compensation for the peasants. It is understood that the pay of soldiers and officers of the Red Army will likewise be increased in proportion to the higher food prices.

TERMS OF AUSTRIAN LOAN CONVERSION

Paris, Dec. 1

The chief provision of the Austrian loan conversion agreement reached on Friday between the Austrian Finance Minister, Buresch and the French Finance Minister, Germain-Martin is that the interest rate on the loan will be lowered from 5½ to 5 and the amortisation payments suspended for three years so as to allow the Austrian Government to cope with the State budget difficulties, while the amortisation plan itself will embody the extension period for repayment till 1959 instead of as heretofore in 1943.—
